ILLINOIS WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

Illinois Wesleyan University, founded in 1850, enrolls about 2,100 undergraduates in the College of Liberal Arts, with 17 academic departments, and in the Schools of Art, Music, Nursing and Theatre Arts. The University has been mentioned favorably in a number of annual college guides — The Fiske Guide to Colleges called IWU the “...the perfect place for multitalented students to thrive” and listed the school as one of only eleven “Best Buys” for private institutions; Barron’s Profiles of American Colleges, the Princeton Review, and Peterson’s Competitive Colleges also rank IWU highly, and Washington Post education editor Jay Matthews, author of Harvard Schmarvard, listed IWU as a top ten “hidden gem” after surveying hundreds of high school teachers and guidance counselors across the country, asking for colleges that excelled at student-centered teaching. Emphasizing a distinctive liberal arts curriculum as the central feature of every student’s education, IWU also provides opportunities for professional and pre-professional preparation. The student-faculty ratio of 12-to-1 means that the University’s students are active participants in their education, often working individually with faculty members on research. As a residential university, Illinois Wesleyan provides a vibrant campus environment in which rich co-curricular offerings complement the primary academic mission. About 30 percent of each graduating class goes on to graduate school, with recent alumni accepted into law schools, medical schools, and in other advanced degree programs.

New Facilities. The $25 million Ames Library, a place where books, journals and other materials of intellect and culture are complemented by exciting computer and information technology, opened in 2002 and the recent $6 million renovation of the Memorial Gym has resulted in the Hansen Student Center, a facility designed to meet the social, recreational, and educational needs of IWU students. IWU’s attractive and well-maintained 73-acre campus saw approximately $51 million in new construction in the 1990s, including the Shirk Center for Athletics and Recreation (1994), the Center for Natural Science Learning and Research (1995), the Center for Liberal Arts (1997) as well as a residence hall, accommodating 118 students in suite-like apartments (1997).

The Shirk Center was funded in part by a $5 million gift from the Russell and Betty Shirk Foundation of Bloomington. The Shirk family owns Beer Nuts, Inc.®, the Bloomington-based snack food company. The complex seats 2,680 in its performance arena, and contains four multi-use courts for tennis, volleyball, basketball, as well as a 200-meter track and other facilities. In 1999 the Jack Horenberger Baseball Field was opened, which paved the way in 2000 for new softball and soccer fields.

The science center has 15 technologically-equipped classrooms, lecture halls, and seminar rooms; 18 teaching labs; 27 research labs; and facilities for computers. The Center for Liberal Arts houses 60 faculty offices, classrooms, and facilities for social science, humanities, business and economics.

Distinguished Speakers. IWU has hosted a number of outstanding speakers, including former U.S. Defense Secretary William Cohen, authors Maya Angelou and Kurt Vonnegut, and film directors Ken Burns, Kevin Smith and Spike Lee.

Accomplished Alumni. Illinois Wesleyan alumni of distinction include Edward B. Rust, Jr., ’72, president and chief executive officer of Bloomington-based State Farm Insurance; Dawn Upshaw ’82, a two-time Grammy-award winning singer with the New York Metropolitan Opera; Frankie Faison ’71, who has appeared in the films “Silence of the Lambs”, “The Thomas Crown Affair” and “Coming to America”; Akito Mizuno ’74, senior managing director of Mizuno, the world’s largest sporting goods company; Steve Vogel ’68, author of the best-selling true crime book “Reasonable Doubt”; and Richard Jenkins ’69, who portrayed Nathaniel in a recurring role in the award-winning HBO series “Six Feet Under.”

RICHARD F. WILSON, PRESIDENT

Richard F. Wilson became the 18th president at Illinois Wesleyan in July 2004.

Since 1978 Wilson has served in a number of roles at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, most recently (since 1996) as Vice President of the U. of Illinois Foundation. He was responsible for all private fundraising on the Urbana campus, including leading campus efforts to achieve its $1 billion goal as part of the university’s comprehensive campaign.

From 1986 to 1994, Wilson was Associate Chancellor, leading efforts to incorporate computing technologies into instruction and providing oversight of intercollegiate athletics. In 1994, he became Associate Chancellor for Development and Deputy Director of the University of Illinois Foundation.

Since 1981 Wilson held an adjunct teaching position in the College of Education, most recently as Adjunct Professor of Higher Education.

Wilson earned a bachelor’s degree in mathematics from Alderson-Broadus College (W.Va.), where he earned honors in both academics and athletics.

Wilson pursued advanced degrees at the University of Michigan, earning both the master’s and doctoral degrees in higher education.

Wilson and his wife, Pat, have two children — Adam, who lives in San Francisco, and Rachel, who lives in Springfield, Ill.

The Shirk Center

The $15 million Shirk Center, opened in 1994, was funded in part by a $5 million gift from the Russell and Betty Shirk Foundation of Bloomington. The Shirk family owns Beer Nuts, Inc., the Bloomington-based snack food company. The two-level, 135,344-square foot complex seats 2,680 for sporting events (3,450 for commencement) in its performance arena, and contains four multi-use courts for tennis, volleyball, basketball, and other sports, as well as racquetball courts, a 200-meter track, a training room and wellness center, classrooms, and other facilities.

The first game at the Shirk Center was a 99-96 win over Aurora on November 30, 1994, (7:05 p.m. game). IWU won a school-record 46 straight home games prior to losing to Benedictine, 73-70, on Dec. 9, 1998. The only prior loss was on March 11, 1995, to Manchester (89-82) in the NCAA Division III tournament. The Titans won their first 14 home games in 1994-95 at the Shirk Center, giving IWU a 23-game home court win streak, including nine at Fred Young Fieldhouse.

From 1962-94, IWU men's basketball was 311-80 (.795 winning percentage) at Fred Young Fieldhouse, named for 1915 IWU alumnus Fred Young, a Titan athletic great and long-time sports editor/columnist for The Daily Pantagraph. The first game in the building was March 2, 1962, an 85-59 conference championship-clinching win over Lake Forest. The final game was Feb. 22, 1994, a 91-80 conference championship-clinching win over North Park. The longest winning streaks at Fred Young Fieldhouse were 31 games (1975 to 1978), 20 games (1986 to 1988), and 17 games (1962 to 1965).

Athletic Director Dennie Bridges

Dennie Bridges has been athletic director at Illinois Wesleyan University since 1981 and was head basketball coach at the school for 36 seasons, retiring after the 2001 season. He retired as the winningest active coach in NCAA Division III men's basketball with a record of 667-319.

Bridges' 2000-01 team finished 24-7 and placed third in the national Division III tournament. His 1997 team won the Division III title, earning him Division III "Coach of the Year" honors, and his 1996 squad also played to a third-place national finish.

He is one of only 22 college coaches (regardless of division) with more than 650 victories and is the second winningest coach, by victories, in Division III history, behind Dick Sauers, who amassed 702 wins at Albany (N.Y.) in 41 seasons from 1956 to 1997.

Bridges, who coached in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin longer and won more league championships than any other coach in CCIW history, had a league mark of 421-129 with 17 titles, a total twice as many as any other CCIW team in that period.

Bridges' success in national competition was also been a benchmark of his coaching career. He coached teams into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national tourney seven times and compiled a record of 23-11 in NAIA postseason competition, with two teams reaching the quarterfinals.

One of Bridges' greatest recruiting classes came in 1973, when his freshman class included Jack Sikma of St. Anne (Ill.) High School. Sikma is IWU's all-time leading scorer and rebounder and played 14 seasons in the National Basketball Association for the Seattle SuperSonics and Milwaukee Bucks.

Bridges' teams reached the Division III tournament 14 times in 18 years (1983-2001) of association with the NCAA and posted a 30-14 record with the three top three finishes and five trips to the quarterfinals.

On the heels of the 1995-96 third place Division III tournament finish, the 1996-97 team won the national title and finished with a 29-2 record, the best at IWU since the 1935-36 team was 20-0.

High academic standards were also been a hallmark during Bridges' coaching tenure. Illinois Wesleyan has had 13 first team Academic All-Americans in men's basketball since the program's inception in 1970, second only to UCLA with 17. In 1999 and 2000, IWU's Korey Coon was named the "Academic All-American of the Year" and won the 2000 Jostens Trophy, recognizing the outstanding student-athlete in Division III basketball. Illinois Wesleyan also has had six others in basketball who earned second- or third-team Academic All-America honors.

Bridges has spent his entire career as an Illinois Wesleyan athlete, coach, and administrator. A native of Anchor, a rural town 25 miles east of Bloomington, Bridges was a four-year letterman and starter in basketball and baseball and a three-year football letterman (all-conference quarterback). In basketball, he was a two-year captain, most valuable player and all-conference once. He is currently 40th in school scoring history with 926 career points.

After graduating in 1961, Bridges coached at Plainfield (Ill.) High School three years before returning to IWU in 1964 as Horenberger's basketball assistant and head tennis coach with the understanding that he would become head basketball coach for the 1965-66 season. Then, with four starters back from a championship team, the rookie coach led the Titans to a sixth CCIW championship in seven years.

Under Bridges' tenure as athletic director, the Shirk Center and Fort Natatorium have been constructed, varsity swimming returned for men and was added for women, and men's and women's soccer, women's cross country, and women's golf have been added as varsity sports. He was extremely active in fundraising for the Jack Horenberger Baseball Field, opened in April 1999, which yielded new facilities in softball, the Neis Soccer Field, along with renovations of the football field and outdoor track.

Bridges, who has conducted basketball clinics in Brazil, New Zealand, and Australia, is a member of the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association Hall of Fame, received the IBCA's Buzzy O'Connor award for meritorious service and has been the state's Division III Coach of the Year several times.

Bridges and his wife, Rita, have three grown children, all former IWU student-athletes. Angela Romani, a four-year regular in tennis, and her husband, Tim, live in Denver, Colo., with their two children — Alyssa and Carly. Steve, a four-year baseball and football letterman, was a second-team Academic All-American in football once and a third-team selection in baseball twice. With a law degree from the University of Illinois, he is a legal consultant for Aon Corporation in Chicago. Eric, a four-year basketball regular and No. 12 in IWU career scoring, has an MBA degree from the University of Iowa, and is employed in Bloomington by State Farm Insurance. Eric and his wife, April, are the parents of one son, Keegan and a daughter, Summer.

Many of Bridges' memories are included in his book, "A Dunk Only Counts Two Points," published in 2002, as well as his 2006 book, "Kids Don't Bat Rocks Anymore." Both books are available by contacting the IWU Bookstore at (309) 556-3059.

Head Coach Ron Rose

Ron Rose, who played on two conference championship teams and three NCAA Division III tournament teams during his career at Illinois Wesleyan University, became the 14th men's basketball coach at his alma mater on May 12, 2006.

Rose's first team (2006-07) at IWU was 11-14 overall and 4-10 in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin and featured Division III All-American Zach Freeman.

Prior to returning to IWU, the 41-year-old Rose was head basketball coach at Bloomington High School for five seasons (2001-06), where his teams were 103-38 with two Big 12 Conference titles, four straight Intercity tournament championships and regional and sectional championships in 2006. The Raiders' sectional title was the first at the school in 31 years and in 2004-05, BHS won the Pontiac Holiday Tournament for the first time in school history.

In nine total seasons as a high school head coach (four at Normal Community), Rose amassed a cumulative record of 154-93 for a .623 winning percentage. A Morton (Ill.) High School graduate, Rose was the "Most Valuable Player" for the Class AA South in the 1984 Illinois Basketball Coaches Association all-star game and attended Valparaiso University, where he started his final two games before transferring to IWU midseason of his freshman year (1984-85).

A four-year letterman at IWU, Rose played on Bridges-coached teams that went a combined 66-33 and was a starting guard in 68 career games, averaging 5.9 points and amassing 356 assists, a total that still ranks No. 6 all-time at IWU. His 137 assists in 1987-88 is seventh best in a Titan single season.

The Titans were 19-10 in 1985-86, 17-10 in 1986-87, and 24-5 in 1987-88, earning NCAA Division III tournament bids all three seasons and winning the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin titles in 1986 and 1988. The 1988 team advanced to the final eight of the Division III tournament before losing at eventual national champion Ohio Wesleyan, and the 1987 team was ousted by North Park, who was also the eventual national champion.

After graduating from Illinois Wesleyan in 1988 with a degree in business administration and mathematics, Rose worked as an actuarial assistant at Bloomington's State Farm Insurance before returning to school at Olivet Nazarene University, where he earned a master's degree in teaching in 1992 and served two seasons as a basketball assistant for Ralph Hodge.

Rose was an assistant basketball coach under Scott Thompson at Wichita State University from 1992-94, where his duties included evaluating and recruiting prospective student-athletes, monitoring academic progress, coordinating scouting and assisting with summer camps and clinics.

Rose returned to the Twin Cities to coach and teach at Normal Community High School, where his teams were 51-55 in four seasons, including a 17-10 mark in 1996-97.

He worked as human resources benefit analyst at State Farm in 1999-2000 before joining the Bloomington High staff.

Rose and his wife, Tina, have four children — Austin, Brady, Ryan, and Aubrey.

Titans in Pro Basketball

Jack Sikma, IWU's all-time leading scorer, was the first small college athlete to be inducted into the Academic All-America Hall of Fame. Sikma had a 14-year career in the National Basketball Association with the Seattle SuperSonics and the Milwaukee Bucks. Sikma, now a businessman in the Seattle area and an assistant coach with the Sonics, finished his NBA career with 17,287 points and 10,816 rebounds in 1,107 games. A seven-time all-star, Sikma was the first NBA center to lead the league in free throw shooting, making 92.2 per cent of his charity tosses in 1987-88 for the Bucks. He is currently an assistant coach with the NBA Houston Rockets.

An early Titan to play pro basketball was Harold Dembo, who played two games for the Chicago Bruins (owned by football Hall of Famer George Halas) in the 1939-40 National Basketball League season. Dembo scored two points on one field goal.

Zach Freeman, a 2007 graduate, is currently playing in Germany for the Hagen Phoenix and Keelan Amelianovich, a 2006 All-American, played with Cibola Liria in Spain in 2006-07. Bryan Crabtree, the 1997 NCAA Division III "Player of the Year", played for several seasons in Portugal, Germany and the Czech Republic. Other recent IWU players Jeff Kuehl (1990 grad) and David Caldwell (1991) also played professional basketball in foreign lands — Kuehl in Germany and Caldwell in Australia.

Conference, National Affiliations

While still a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, Illinois Wesleyan joined the National Collegiate Athletic Association in 1977 and held joint memberships in both organizations, competing in the NAIA in basketball until dropping after the 1982-83 season. When IWU shifted exclusively to NCAA membership, it resulted in the College Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin (CCIW) receiving an automatic berth in Division III playoffs, since all members were competing only in the NCAA nationally.

The first IWU team to participate in NCAA postseason was the 1978 baseball team, which placed second in the West Regional. Baseball also made the NCAA tourney in 2007, 2005, 2004, 2001 (finishing seventh at the Division III "World Series") and 1989 while other Titan teams to compete in NCAA national playoffs include volleyball (1991, 1997, 1998), football (quarterfinals in 1992 and 1996), softball (1994, 1996, 2000, 2001, finishing third in 2003 NCAA tournament, 2007), men's golf (2007) and women's basketball (1995, 1996, 2003). In the national tournaments, the IWU women's golf team has finished sixth in 2007, 2006 and 2000, 10th in 2002 and eighth in 2005. In addition, many IWU athletes have been champions in indoor and outdoor track, most recently Rachel Anderson (2006 indoor and outdoor 400), Melissa Harden (2006 indoor long jump) and the 2004 women's 4x400 indoor relay team.

The CCIW is in its 61st year and is nationally recognized as the best small-college conference in the nation. The league, formed with nine members at a meeting in Jacksonville, Ill., on April 26, 1946, opened competition in the 1946-47 school year as the College Conference of Illinois. The charter members were Augustana, Carthage (then in Illinois), Elmhurst, Illinois College (left in 1953), Illinois Wesleyan, Lake Forest (left in 1963), Millikin, North Central, and Wheaton. Carthage left in 1952, then returned in 1961. Wheaton left in 1959 and returned in 1967, and Elmhurst left in 1960 and returned in 1967. Carroll joined in 1955 and left in 1992. North Park joined in 1962. The name was changed in May 1967 to recognize two Wisconsin schools.

BLOOMINGTON-NORMAL, ILLINOIS

Bloomington-Normal, located in McLean County, has a combined population of around 125,000 people. It serves as corporate headquarters to several international businesses, including State Farm Insurance, the largest insurer of autos and homes in the U.S.; Mitsubishi Motors of North America, the most technologically advanced auto production facility in the world; and Country Insurance & Financial Services as well as Nestle Beich Candies and Shirk Products, the makers of the world-famous Beer Nuts®. Normal is the home of the 20,000-student Illinois State University, which participates in NCAA Division I athletics. Bloomington-Normal is located halfway between St. Louis and Chicago at the junction of Interstates 55, 39 and 74. The community offers 31 hotel properties with more than 3,500 sleeping rooms as well as two shopping malls and over 150 restaurants. The area is also served by Amtrak rail service, and a number of air carriers and connecting flights. For more information about hotel/motel accommodations or other things to do or see in the Twin Cities, contact the Bloomington-Normal Convention and Visitors Bureau, (309) 665-0033 or (800) 433-8226 or visit www.bloomingtonnormalcvb.org. Pictured is the David Davis Mansion (1872), home of United States Supreme Court Justice David Davis, mentor to Abraham Lincoln.

HISTORY LESSON: Not since 1973 (Augustana, 16-0) has there been an undefeated CCIW champion. Since 1973, CCIW schools have won six NCAA Division III championships, finished second twice and third three times and have had several final eight finishes in both the NCAA and NAIA tournaments — but no undefeated league champion. In the 27 years, 12 champions had one loss and nine champions had lost twice.
