

PRESIDENT

Illinois Wesleyan University (IWU), a highly selective national liberal arts college, seeks applications and nominations for the position of President. The new President will succeed the late Minor Myers, Jr., the University's 17th President.

The next President will lead an institution that has distinguished itself as a strong independent, liberal arts university. Illinois Wesleyan has recently completed an era of unprecedented growth in the areas of enrollment, faculty, facilities, and endowment. With a student body of 2,100 undergraduates and over 170 full-time faculty, IWU is situated on a beautiful 79-acre campus in the twin cities of Bloomington/Normal. The cities, located two hours from Chicago, have a combined population of 113,000 and a strong economy in higher education, insurance, and manufacturing.

The successful candidate will have experience with and enthusiasm for promoting the University's rich liberal arts tradition and vision, demonstrate a record of successful administrative experience with an open and collegial managerial style, command scholarly respect with evidence of intellectual achievement, and possess the capacity and enthusiasm to raise the level of financial support from alumni, friends, foundations, corporations, and other sources.

The confidential review of credentials will begin immediately and will continue until the position is filled. For best consideration, applicants and nominators should submit materials, preferably electronically, by January 5, 2004. Applications, including a statement of interest and vita, should be sent to:
